Jossy Chacko:

Jossy is the founder and international director of Empart, a global Christian non-profit organisation. Empart, formerly known as Compassion for India (CFI), started in the Chacko's spare bedroom in 1998 and, under Jossy's entrepreneurial leadership, has grown to over 700 full time workers with operations in six countries.

Jossy left India at the age of 17 with a 12kg suitcase, $20 in his pocket and a one-way ticket to Australia. After early struggles with no money, friends or family, he started at the bottom of a small family logistics company which later grew to be listed on the Australian Stock Exchange. The valuable lessons he learned through both the difficult and blessed times have made him a successful and influential leader.

Busy climbing the corporate ladder and chasing success, Jossy's life was changed forever by an encounter with an eight year old homeless boy from the slums of Delhi. Jossy subsequently chose to seek and fulfil his life purpose, culminating in the establishment of CFI.

Jossy's wisdom and insight cause him to be regularly invited to speak into the lives of business and political leaders. He is a dynamic and gifted communicator, travelling globally to speak to groups of from 30 to 30,000 people. Today, he is as passionate as ever about pursuing his life purpose and mentoring others to do the same.

Jossy is happily married to Jenni. They live in the 'JC Residence' in Wonga Park, Melbourne with their children - Jemimah, Jacob, Jasmine and Joshua.
